

NCCF Remembrance Project

Leeds October 2018

Welcome to Leeds minster where we will be holding a re-dedication ceremony for the British Nuclear Test Veterans memorial in the grounds of the Minster.

The Nuclear Community Charity Fund is delivering a remembrance project where all Nuclear Test memorials across the UK will be restored and rededicated. Our aim is to ensure the memorials remain accessible for generations to come and that the human stories behind each memorial can also be shared with those generations.

Following this ceremony refreshments will be available in the Minster for those who have pre-booked. During the Evensong Service, the standard of the West Yorkshire Branch of the BNTVA will be laid up within the Minster.

BNTVA West Yorkshire Standard laid up at York Minster 7th October 2018.

NCCF Projects

The NCCF continues to deliver much needed projects to our nuclear community, alongside the Remembrance Project we have a Communications Project responsible for creating the exciting new exposure magazine, the only source of news regarding our projects. We have established a centre of excellence with the CHRC at Brunel University London and we have a number of scientific and sociological research projects being delivered within its remit. The jewel of the NCCF projects is the Care Wellbeing and Inclusion Fund, set up to ease suffering and increase wellbeing within the British Nuclear Community. The fund is financed from an endowment investment which provides an annual return from which the grants are made. The structure of the fund and its anticipated lifespan was directed by the grant funding body as they require the fund to be available to the nuclear community for at least the next 15 years.

Remembrance Expanded

Each memorial has its unique exhibition within our virtual museum bridging the physical world with the online repository and preserving the heritage of our nuclear community. You can visit the memorial at: nucleartest.online or by scanning this QR code with your smartphone.
